
BURNABY NEWSLEADER

Burnaby's Wildlife Rescue Association looks for helping hand

By Staff Writer - Burnaby NewsLeader

Published: August 11, 2011 4:00 PM

Updated: August 11, 2011 4:16 PM

The Burnaby-based Wildlife Rescue Association of B.C. (WRA) is looking for help to get a share of $100,000, and it won't cost those lending a hand a penny.

The WRA is one of five wildlife protection organizations competing for the money in Jamieson Laboratories' Call for the Wild! campaign. The more online votes WRA gets, the bigger its share.

Voting runs Aug. 16 to Sept. 25 at www.jamiesoncares.com.

+More Community Headlines

<Back to Mobile Edition
